Excerpt: . . . that case I cannot see how Edgar is entitled to any commission. The only other communication produced at the trial is a letter from Caskey to Dale, dated October 2nd, 1911, which shews upon its face that it was written in reply to a telegram from Dale advising him that Edgar was suing him and that the draft was returned in error and asking him to re-draw. The letter then goes on to say that Caskey has sold the property to another purchaser and winds up by saying, I cannot see why Edgar can collect his commission from you, and when his client failed to meet the payment, no sale was made. By writing, dated on the 26th of September, 1911, Caskey agreed with the defendant Horner for the sale of this lot to him. Edgar recorded a caveat on the 2nd of October, based upon the agreement in question in this action and Homer recorded a caveat on the 5th of October, based upon his agreement of the 26th of September. The action is brought by the Edgar-Agar Company, the parties with whom-Dales correspondence was carried on, it being admitted that Thomas D. Edgar, whose name appears in the agreement as the purchaser, was, at its date, a member of this firm, and that the property was really bought for the firm and taken in Edgars name for convenience. The plaintiffs claim as amended at the trial is for specific performance, and...
