Excerpt: .Materialism; that essence is the assertion that mind is an energy of matter. Of course, the Materialist denies Mind as an entity, as an occult force, as a Noumenon, as vital spirits, or animal spirits, or anything else capable of existing separate from Matter, or capable of being infused into another form without; but not even the author of L Homme Machine himself denies that there are manifestations and faculties of matter which are not themselves matter, any more than music is itself a grand piano. The controversy has never turned, so far as I can discover, on the existence of consciousness, with all its modes and laws, but on its source and connections. Another member of this Society has propounded, with great point and vigour, a difficulty as against Materialism, to which I shall refer, not for the purpose of disputing it on its...
