At whatever time and by whomsoever offered, holocausts were naturally regarded as the highest, because the most complete, outward expression of man s reverence to God. It is, indeed, true that certain passages of the prophets of Israel have been construed by modern critics into an utter rejection of the offering of sacrifices, the holocausts included; but this position is the outcome of a partial view of the evidence, of the misconception of an attack on abuses as an attack on the institution which they had infected. For details concerning this point, and for a discussion of the place which the same scholars assign to the 6lah (holocaust) in their theory of the development of the sacrificial system among the Hebrews, see Sacrifice. The following is a concise statement of the Mosaic Law as contained chiefly in what critics...
