The striae may be alternately coarse and fine, or there may be several fine striae between the coarser ones. Internally the ventral valve is not usually well preserved. The vascular area is small and not usually well defined. The teeth which diverge from the beak, are prominent, rounded, and become thicker towards their extremities. In the dorsal valve the cardinal process is prominent and on both sides of it are strong divergent dental lamellae which are produced forward and extend to at least the middle of the valve, converging toward the central prominent ridge which extends from beneath the beak to the base, and circumscribes a suboval muscular area. Dimensions of an average specimen: Length 6.5 mm.: width 8 mm. Dalmanella clarki may be distinguished from Dalmanella postelegantula of the...

Reviews

Thorough manual for ebook fans. it had been writtern quite properly and valuable. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
