Excerpt: . SHANTINIKETAN W. W. PEARSON The author of the story that follows was so intimately connected with the life of Rabindranath Tagore s school at Shantiniketan, Bolpur, that in order to understand the spirit of the story which was written for the boys of the ashram and was told them as they sat under the trees in the moonlight, a short account of the School itself seems a fitting introduction. As our first impressions of a place are often the truest I will begin by an account of my first visit to Bolpur in 1912. Bolpur is situated about a hundred miles from Calcutta so that the School is remote from the distractions of town life, and yet within easy reach of the stimulating activities of an intellectual centre. When I arrived at the station it was just sunset, the time picturesquely called in...
